atmosphere simplicity and authenticity in an arab-moroccan inspired ambiance the space that was missing in cape verde... comfortable, nice, and hip, without compromising the island's authenticity this former colonial house was transformed into a guesthouse, by resorting to natural energy sources and the island's raw-materials the rooms are comfortable and attractive, decorated in a clean style, with craftwork details and mosquito nets a sophisticated and modern touch fills the house with a unique and surprising soul the interior courtyard is a truly arab riad, permeated by the sweet scent of plants, and protected from the island's blazing sun by high white walls perfect to relax, read a book, taste breakfast or dinner amidst the soft colourful light of ancient moroccan lamps at the bar, the most cheerful place in the house, as you take a sip of grogue or ponche, you can listen to morna and fado, a mixture of african and portuguese rhythms
